Declaration of Co-operative Action Against Invader Wins Approval.

WARNING TO DICTATORS

Draft Approved by Principal Republics After Extended Peru Conference.

(By Associated Press)

LIMA, Peru—The principal delegations to the Pan-American conference agreed today on a declaration of co-operative action against aggression, ending a ten-day dispute on wording between the United States and Argentina.

The declaration, highly reliable conference informants said, provides for consultation against aggression, the menace of force, and subversive political propaganda.

Argentina Scores Point

Argentina won her point in that European or other non-American nations were not named specifically. The United States attained its purpose, however, delegates said, in obtaining a declaration to which all the 21 American republics could subscribe.

Many of the delegates held that it was fear of propagandist incursion by European totalitarianism, dictator states which inspired the resolution in the first place, that even if it did not specifically contain the phrase "aggression from without" its warning was evident.

A most reliable source said the United States, Argentina, Brazilian and Peruvian delegation chiefs agreed to a final draft at conferences lasting until early morning.

Awaits Approval

The Argentine insistence that the declaration be against all aggressors was based on the contention that the United States might one day alter the good neighbor policy and herself be a potential aggressor.

The resolution now awaits the approval of home governments and, with the principal dispute settled, likely will be adopted unanimously within a few days, delegation spokesmen said.

It provides for resistance against any aggression or menace of aggression by force against any American republic. Any of the nations may start the procedure of consultation.

Secretary Hull of the United States, having abandoned his own wish for a formal mutual defense pact, insisted upon a declaration that could be made unanimous.

Disappointed in Love, He Dies in Makeshift 'Chair'

CHICAGO—(AP)—John Hersh, 39, a radio technician, was disappointed in love after an eight-year courtship. Yesterday he constructed a makeshift electric chair, turned on the current and killed himself.

His former sweetheart, Mrs. Nell Lane, 35, a widow, accompanied by a friend, Charles Smith, found Hersh's body in his workshop. It lay on a canvas folding chair.

Police Capt. Edward Kelly said Hersh had connected a radio transformer to an ordinary wall plug, stepped up the normal 110 volts to approximately 5,000 volts. Two wires led from the transformer, one taped to Hersh's bare left arm and left leg. The other he held tightly in his right hand.

When Mrs. Lane entered the workshop she found the page of a calendar pinned to Hersh's shirt. It bore a printed warning:

"Danger! Turn electricity off before you touch me."

Hiker Admits He Murdered Business Man

Youth Confesses Slaying of Man Found Dead in Car Near Station.

(By Associated Press)

YOUNGSTOWN—Chauncey Miller, 22 of Struthers, confessed early today that he killed Henry Fitch, prominent Struthers man, as Fitch's car approached the Struthers police station Oct. 18, Sheriff Ralph Elser announced.

Miller pleaded guilty to a charge of first degree murder before Mayor T. E. Roberts of Struthers and was bound over to the grand jury.

Miller was returned here last night from Uniontown, Pa., where he had been arrested for breaking the seals on a freight car. A New Testament, bearing Miller's name, which he had left in a cave where he hid a few hours after the slaying, helped connect him with the death.

First Makes Denial

Elser said Miller admitted freely last night that he was in the car, but first insisted that Fitch shot himself. Only after further questioning here, when confronted with the statements of witnesses which conflicted with his story, did Miller admit shooting Fitch. Elser declared.

Elser said Miller related that Fitch picked him up on the way into Struthers, and that he shot him while they were crossing a bridge 150 feet from the Struthers police station.

Elser said Miller gave no motive for the shooting.

Afterward, Miller is said to have confessed he hid in a cave in the Yellow creek valley, and burned his clothes. Later he went to Salem and Pittsburgh.

Visited Victim's Grave

He returned here six days after the slaying and visited Fitch's grave, then started for Cumberland, Md. On the way there he was arrested for stealing railroaders' lunches and spent 40 days in jail at Grafton, Pa.

Police Chief Harry Davis of Struthers had been given a New Testament left behind by Miller in the cave. When Baltimore and Ohio police at Connellsville, Pa., arrested Miller again last week, they went to Davis for his record.

Recalling the Testament, Davis asked for a description of Miller. When the description fitted that of the man seen fleeing from Fitch's car, Davis and Elser went to interview Miller at the county jail at Uniontown. He returned here without protest, Elser said.

TASTES WINTER

City Reminded Colder Weather Is Just Around Corner.

More snow flurries and colder weather were in prospect for the Mansfield area tonight and Thursday as winter storms swept most of the nation and brought heavy snow and floods to western states.

Light snow fell in Mansfield last night and this morning as the temperature fell to 24 degrees above zero. The mercury stood at 31 at noon, one degree below freezing.

Temperatures were not unusually low in any section, and the snow fell in widely scattered parts of the nation.

In Arizona, heavy rain and snow ended a three-month drought and saved fall wheat. A five-day rain, totaling 10.70 inches near Los Angeles, sent rivers far out of their banks, but the deluge was subsiding today.

Tax Suits Against 4 Estates

Hinge on Court Ruling Today

Common Pleas Judge D. A. Cook of Lorain county, presiding in Richland county common pleas court, was to rule today on demurrers and motions filed in taxpayer's suits which would require owners and executors of four large properties in the Mansfield area to show how much personal tax was paid on the properties from 1926 to 1930.

Decisions handed down by Judge Cook will go a long way toward determining whether the suits will go to trial and whether county officials and the state tax commission must open tax records to attorneys for Michael Hallabrin, the plaintiff, court attaches said.

A temporary injunction granted several weeks ago halted examination of the tax records by Hallabrin's counsel.

Attorneys for the state tax commission and the defendants contended in their demurrers that the county auditor and treasurer and the tax commission cannot be made party defendants in the tax suits.

The original actions, filed last May, named four defendants. They were J. A. Rigby, Harry S. Black, the Citizens National Bank and Trust company, executor of the estate of the late Burton C. Preston, and Donald S. Black and others as executors of the estate of the late Frank B. Black.

Swindle Kings Find Suicide Easiest Way Out When the Bubble Bursts

Such Men as Coster Dread to Face the Music.

By JACK STINNETT (AP Feature Service Writer)

NEW YORK—When the bubbles burst, the swindle kings can't take it.

When F. Donald Coster, president of McKesson and Robbins, stood before a bathroom mirror in his palatial Fairfield, Conn., home and ended his amazing life of crime with a 38-caliber pistol, he became the fourth great fraud to take "the easiest way out" in the last seven years. A fifth jumped bail and fled but was captured before his ship cleared port.

In less than a fortnight of investigation Coster's financial machinations within the $86,000,000 drug firm were bared. Almost simultaneously came the discovery that the greatly respected, luxury-loving wizard of finance was really Philip Musica, twice-convicted swindler.

The house of cards which the one-time Italian cheese importer had been building for 12 years under the name of Coster crashed even before all of Coster's fantastic ups and downs could be uncovered.

Match King Tumbles

In March 1932 Ivar Kreuger, the Swedish Match King and international industrialist, shot himself in his sumptuous Paris apartment. Afterward it was discovered that the assets of "one of the world's richest men" were mostly ledger manipulations running into hundreds of millions.

In January 1934, in a cabin in the little Alpine village of Champonix, the body of Serge "Handsome Alex" Stavisky was found. Police announced that the central figure in the $12,800,000 French municipal pawnshop scandals had taken his own life.

In the early summer of the same year, C. C. Julian, one-time millionaire oil promoter in California and Oklahoma, drank poison in his Shanghai hotel room. He was a fugitive from federal justice, a virtual prisoner in Shanghai's International settlement, one of the few places in the world from which he could not be extradited.

Donald Coster-Musica mystery, already involving millions and international duplicity, took a new and more sinister turn today as Brooklyn detectives began investigating the swindler's possible connection with the unsolved murders of Joseph Cohen, wealthy poultry and fish dealer, and his brother, Barnett.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Another crony out of the past of Philip Musica—a man who knew the swindling super-swindler when he was a World war spy-hunter—was held today on a charge of conspiracy in the McKesson and Robbins drug mystery.

The arrest of Benjamin Simon, 49-year-old Bronx salesman with a police record, gave credence to a previously reported story of an old friend who met Musica once in 1926 to 1930.

Simon was arrested on charges of conspiracy for 50 years on charges of shooting Myrl Alderman, the handsome pianist who replaced him as the husband of Ruth Etting, the blues singer.

Snyder saw the jury file out to begin deliberations at 4:02 p. m. yesterday. Two hours later the jurors went to dinner and then after another half hour's deliberation, went to bed.

The Gimp is charged with five counts of attempted murder, kidnapping, and gun violation.

HARBAGE LOSES

Foe of Mileage 'Grab' Can't Get Own Expenses From State.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Arnett Harbage, the Madison county farmer who prevented members of the house of representatives from collecting $21,430 in mileage allowances, unsuccessfully sought today to have the state pay his expenses. Common Pleas Judge Cecil J. Randall overruled Harbage's request for an allowance for court costs and counsel fees.

CLEVELAND VOTES TODAY

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Cleveland voted today on a $3,000,000 mortgage bond issue for expansion of its municipal light plant. A majority is required to carry the issue, and if passed the sum will be matched by $2,500,000 in public works administration funds.

$700 RAISED, 2-WAY POLICE RADIO ASSURED

Public Subscription Campaign Goes Over Top, Equipment Due First of Year.

CITY TO BE 11TH IN STATE

New System to Enable Officers in Cruisers to 'Talk Back' to Headquarters.

With the needed $700 raised and in the bank, two-way radio for the Mansfield police force will become a reality by Jan. 1.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates today announced that the public subscription had "gone over the top" and said he was taking immediate steps to get the new equipment in operation by the first of the year.

When it is installed, Mansfield will be the 11th city in the state to have two-way police radio communication, which enables police cruisers to "talk back" to headquarters. With the radio system now in use, headquarters can talk to cruisers, but officers in the patrol cars cannot communicate with the station.

4 Cruisers to Be Equipped

The new two-way equipment is now under construction at Radio Station WPAJ at Portsmouth. Each of the department's four cruisers will be equipped with a portable radio sending set.

Application was made two weeks ago to the federal communications commission in Washington for permission to operate the new equipment and approval is expected soon.

Bates said the "talk back" system will mark a new era in police protection for Mansfield and will greatly increase the efficiency and speed of the entire department.

Thanks Contributors

"I want to extend my sincere thanks to the contributors who made the purchase of the new equipment possible," Bates said, "for it is through their civic-minded unselfishness that we will be able to offer a greater protection to the citizens of Mansfield."

He explained that when installed, each cruiser will be a radio station in itself, equipped with a transmitter, microphone and individual antenna.

Under the "talk back" system, patrol cars will receive messages through the present receiver and the patrolmen will need only lift a microphone from the dashboard, press a button attached to the "mike" and talk to headquarters, Bates said.

VIZETELLY DIES

Lexicographer, Expert on Dictionaries, Stricken.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Dr. Frank H. Vizetelly, 74, widely known lexicographer, died today of pneumonia.

Vizetelly was a native of England where his father was a master printer and for a time was special correspondent for French publications.

After that he conducted a publishing house in England. He came to New York in 1891. His first job was with Funk and Wagnalls and it was with them that he became internationally famous for his work on their dictionaries.

His interest in words—slang particularly—never languished, and he was forever checking newspaper and other publications seeking new and more expressive words and tracing their origin.

Mother Asks Court to Aid in Regaining Custody of Child

In a case that would test the wisdom of a Solomon, a Mansfield mother went to court today to recover custody of her seven-year-old daughter who she contends is being held illegally at Iberia, Morrow county.

The mother, Helen Marshall, of Mansfield, a divorcee, seeks a writ of habeas corpus for the release of the child, Vonda Jean Allen, who has been with Paul Mason and his mother, Mrs. Della Palmer at Iberia since last July.

Mason contends he is the father of the girl, although the child bears the name of Allen, since Miss Marshall formerly was married to a man by that name.

The request for a writ asks that Mason, his wife, Sarah Bell Mason,

Eden Lands At Plymouth; Impressed by Visit to U. S.

PLYMOUTH, Eng.—(AP)—Former British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and his wife disembarked at Plymouth from the liner Queen Mary today following their week's visit to the United States.

Eden declared he was impressed with the "vitality and candor" of the American attitude toward world affairs.

Eden was married last October, and Mrs. Palmer be required to appear in common pleas court here to show why the child is being held by them.

County probate court records show that the child has been in the custody of her mother in Mansfield until last summer and that the father filed an application for adoption in October. The girl went to visit Mason in July, and he allegedly refused to let her return to her mother.

Probate Judge C. J. Anderson said he refused the application for adoption because Mason was not married. Mason, however, was married a short time later and then was given temporary custody of the girl by Judge Anderson. The child is in school at Iberia.

Widespread, Concerted Rebellion Reported in Garrisons in Insurgent Cities.

1,000 OFFICERS JAILED

General Takes Drastic Steps to Break Up Attempt to Wrest Army Control.

(By International News Service)

PARIS—A revolt against Spanish Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco has broken out in military garrisons of a number of important cities in insurgent Spain, it was learned from usually dependable sources in Paris today.

The revolt appears to be widespread and well planned. Uprisings have taken place in Saragossa, Segovia, Soria, Pamplona and possibly other cities, according to the information available here.

Concerted Action

The uprising was said to have taken place simultaneously, and to have indicated the existence of a plan for concerted action.

More than 1,000 commissioned and non-commissioned officers have been arrested in the cities affected. Additional arrests were said to have been made in other parts of insurgent Spain as General Franco ordered an immediate and drastic purge of disaffected elements.

At least six officers were declared to have been summarily executed at Segovia.

It was not known in Paris whether General Franco has been able to re-establish control in the insurrectionary areas, or whether fighting was proceeding in other districts.

Censors Throttle Story

Censorship tightly closed the Spanish insurgent area off from the outside world. No direct telegraph or telephone contact was permitted so far as political or military events were concerned.

The first indication that there was something wrong in insurgent Spain was a sudden stoppage in mails crossing the frontier into France.

The Christmas and New Year mail which had been flowing regularly over the Franco-Spanish frontier at Hendaye ceased without warning. Inquiries brought forth no explanation.

Persons in close touch with the Spanish situation asserted today that the revolt was the probable cause of delay in the long-awaited new insurgent offensive against the Spanish government forces.

TOPS LAST YEAR

Postoffice Business for Last 8 Days Exceeds 1937 Total.

The volume of Christmas mail at the Mansfield postoffice for the past eight days is well ahead of last year's entire holiday business, Postmaster Herman E. Homberger said today.

Business continued on the up-grade yesterday as 114,000 greeting cards and letters were cancelled during the day, an increase of 16,000 over Monday's cancellations.

Homberger said yesterday's cancellations were just 13,500 under the postoffice record set Dec. 22, 1927, when 127,500 cards and letters were cancelled in a single day.

Sale of postage stamps in all denominations also continued to go ahead of last year's business.

To handle the last minute mailing rush, the stamp and parcel post windows will remain open until 7 p. m. today, Thursday and Friday. These windows will close at 6 p. m. Saturday.

Pretty Waitress Loses $7, Kisses To Hold-Up Man

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Garringer, 20, blond and pretty, listed $7 in "Christmas money" and countless kisses today as her losses in the robbery of Quong Lee's Chinese restaurant.

The money, she said, was to have been a cash gift for her eight brothers and sisters in Shreve.

As for the kisses: One of two young gunmen who trusted up Mrs. Garringer and Quong Lee last night paused repeatedly to kiss the helpless waitress. He even demanded her home address.

She said the amorous intruder had "very pretty blue eyes."

Pack Fruits For Shut-In Members At Circle Meeting

Twenty-five women were present yesterday for the meeting of the Marquis Sewing circle and the Auxiliary to the Charles Dick Camp No. 28, at Memorial hall.

During the afternoon meeting of the sewing circle, the members packed eight baskets of fruit for shut-ins, and a box of presents for a former member, Mrs. Minnie Lowery, who now resides in Cleveland.

A 6 o'clock dinner was served at the hall, with Mrs. Nora Lambert and Mrs. Charles Hall as the hostesses. The regular meeting of the auxiliary was held afterward, with the president, Mrs. Mary Johnson, in charge.

Inspection was held during the meeting by four department officers from Columbus. Mrs. Sarah Runkle, Mrs. Emma Ford, Mrs. Anna Lachamere, and Mrs. John Keefe were the inspectors.

The next regular auxiliary meeting will be at Memorial hall on Jan. 3. The sewing circle is planning a 6 o'clock dinner for the Camp on Jan. 2, which will also be at the hall. Mrs. Ella Bride, Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell, and Mrs. Vernie Hall will be the hostesses.

PROGRESSIVE PARTY HELD BY SORORITY

Beta Sigma Phi Members Entertained at Dinner Last Night; Final Arrangements for Dance Friday Discussed.

A PROGRESSIVE dinner party was an event of yesterday evening for the members of Beta Sigma Phi sorority. Miss Betty Hout was in charge of arrangements for the affair, with the Misses Aleen Hughes, Ardis Linzer and Doris Goodenough assisting her.

The first course of the dinner was served at the home of Mrs. John Bissman, Park avenue west, and from there, the group went to the home of Miss Ruth Workman, Maple street. Miss Lena Colgan, West Third street, and Miss Hughes, Brinkerhoff avenue.

The members had a Christmas gift exchange at Miss Colgan's home, and contests were conducted at the home of Miss Hughes, where they spent the remainder of the evening. Miss Dortha Grimes and Miss Hughes were the contest winners.

This Friday evening, the sorority is sponsoring a Christmas dance in the ballroom of the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Tommy Van will furnish the music for dancing from 10 until 2 o'clock. Miss Janet Olin is the general chairman in charge of arrangements for the dance, and Miss Beatrice Kochenderfer and Miss Hughes are the members of her committee. The next regular sorority meeting will be on Jan. 10.

'Peace' Subject Of Chapter Talk
"Peace" was the subject for discussion yesterday at the regular meeting of the Frances Willard W. C. T. U. at the home of Mrs. Jennie Donnan, 14 Augustus avenue.

Mrs. W. C. B. Harris, vice president of the organization, conducted the business session, and Mrs. Mary Hult had charge of the devotions. Mrs. F. O. Haldeman was chairman of the program, with Mrs. E. A. Bell, Mrs. Hamilton Patton, Miss Elma Sterner and Mrs. Sam Miller assisting in the discussion.

The program was concluded with the reading of a Christmas story by Mrs. Harris. The next meeting will be on Jan. 17, and the place will be announced later.

Sorority Will Entertain At Holiday Guest Party
The routine business meeting of Chi Sigma sorority was conducted last night by Miss Ruth Zelenka, vice president, when the organization met at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Final arrangements for holiday welfare work were made.

Announcement was made of another guest party to be held Dec. 27 at the hotel. Arrangements are being made by the Misses Mary Elizabeth Miller, Mary Strater, Naomi Stutz, Florence Nail, Zelenka and Mrs. Harold Amsbaugh.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon W. Arbaugh left today by train for a month's visit with Mrs. Arbaugh's sister, Mrs. P. S. Hagerman, San Marion, Calif. Mrs. Hagerman is the former Miss Mabel Day of Mansfield.

Tygers Attempt To End Canton Supremacy Tonight

Travel To Gym Of foe

Mansfield Has Yet to Beat Bulldogs in Current Basketball Rivalry.

OUR Tygers, literally speaking, jump out of the frying pan into the fire tonight.

The Mansfield high school basketball team will be in the upper bracket of high school basketball for many years, and this season's edition is looked upon as one of the most promising Bulldogs clubs.

Center Nick Roman, who is virtually as tall as Chet Lairson, Hamilton pivot man, will be lost to the Bulldogs in a couple of weeks because of age, but he will be on the firing line tonight.

He is expected to cause the Tygers a great deal of trouble, but not more than Jerry Hontos, who scored 16 points in Canton's 42 to 38 victory over Akron West last week.

Jim Inman, a six-foot-one-inch sophomore, is another Bulldog star. Roy Shel and Tim Turner will fill out the Canton lineup.

The Canton quintet is coached by Herman Reierick, who comes to McKinley from Dover high, where he turned out a state champion a few years ago.

Murphy was well satisfied with the performance turned in by the Tygers against Hamilton, but believes the team is too weak in reserve strength. The Tyger tactician worked the Tyger reserves overtime this week to prepare them for another emergency such as developed in the Hamilton game when Dave Shelley and Jack Lyons were ousted on personal assignments.

With Shelley and Lyons out of the lineup, the Tygers floundered because of the failure of the replacements to hold up their assignments.

The Tygers will probably lineup tonight with Tom Scott and Jack Dugger at the forwards, Shelley at center and Bill Herpich and Lyons at the guards. Dugger has temporarily replaced Gene Rudolph in the starting lineup because of the latter's defensive weaknesses.

Better at Amity. Other games involving teams of nearby schools tonight will take Butler, undefeated thus far this season, to Amity, Wooster to Ashland and Marion to Columbus North.

Ontario will travel to Bellville Thursday night for a Richland county league tussle.

Italian Kayoes Referee, Arrested

ROME, Italy (U.P.)—Boxing fans who always beef at the referee had a hero today—Fighter Luigi Celli who knocked one out. At the end of his match with Itello Romoni, Celli watched, scowling, as Referee Galletti walked over and raised Romoni's hand in token of victory.

Then Celli rushed up, shoved Romoni aside and pasted a terrific right upper-cut on Referee Galletti's jaw. He took the full count but when he woke up he had the last laugh. As Celli clambered from the ring, Galletti grabbed his arm. "You're under arrest," he said.

Celli unfortunately had forgotten a recent government decree which gave police powers to all sports officials.

Rams Nip Lucas In Loop Tilt

Madison Rallies to Hang Up Fifth Victory.

Madison high school courtiers continued in a tie for first place in the Richland county league with Butler last night by handing Lucas a 27 to 26 setback in an exciting tussle on the Rams' hardwood.

The lead changed hands on several occasions before the Rams could ice the game in the fourth period.

The victory was the fifth of the season for Coach Al Fendrick's men, whose only defeat was administered by Loudonville early in the campaign.

Bill Wilkins, a guard, was outstanding for the Rams. In addition to playing a stellar game on the floor, he led the scoring with five baskets and a free throw.

His twin brother, Bob, contributed six points.

Tom Greulich and Bob Crawford did virtually all of the damage for the Lucasites. They divided eight of their nine buckets, with Crawford collecting three free throws, in addition, to account for 11 points.

Lucas looked like it was victory-bound in the first period when it stepped into an 8 to 4 lead, but the Rams came back with a vengeance in the next frame to build up a 15 to 13 lead before the intermission.

Couch Al Axe's sharpshooters regained the advantage in the third quarter, holding a 22 to 20 edge going into the final period. Madison made up the deficit with a 7 to 4 scoring edge in the final period.

The Lucas reserves took the measure of the Madison seconds, 13 to 10, in the preliminary game.

STATE BOARD STUDIES SPLIT OF CAGE MELON

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—A new plan of splitting up the approximately $150,000 Ohio high school basketball tournament melon so that competing teams receive a greater share of the receipts, is being studied by the state board of control and will be acted upon at the annual meeting Dec. 27.

H. R. Townsend, commissioner of high school athletics, said today that the "bonus" system for the 32 quintets reaching the state finals probably would be continued, and that the state association would take a smaller "cut" from the receipts of the county, sectional and district events, leaving more to be divided among the schools.

Lemunyon's 658 High In Doubles Loop

Sophia Meder, Cliff Burdette Roll 1099 Total.

Rolling games of 226, 220 and 212, Harold Lemunyon socked the uprights for a 658 count to pace the scoring at the Meder alleys last night.

Lemunyon and his partner, Idella Eberhardt, accounted for a 1056 series, which was second high in the Mixed Doubles league. It enabled the duo to take three wins from Pauline Shively and Don Handwork.

Sophie Meder and Cliff Burdette, with respective totals of 553 and 546, accounted for the high doubles count of the night, a 1099. They won three games from Marceda Heiser and Fred McKinley.

Pop Warner, paired with Margaret Heulman, shot a spectacular 256 game to close his 570 series.

BILL DONNELLAN of the Main-benace department club led the sharpshooters in the Mansfield Tire league at the Meder alleys last night with a 614 total. He turned out games of 223, 200 and 191.

Although many leagues will be idle during the Yuletide season, the Tire league will bowl again next Tuesday as usual, it was announced today.

Inmates Lose To Mt. Vernon

Second Half Rally Defeats Reformatory Cagers.

The inmates of the reformatory dropped their second straight decision and fourth in eight games yesterday when they bowed to the Pine Ridge Five of Mt. Vernon, 41 to 39, in a thrilling battle at the institution.

A second half rally enabled the Mt. Vernonites to take the measure of the institution cagers.

The inmates grabbed a 13 to 9 lead in the first period and held a 23 to 14 advantage at the half.

Lutherans, Baptist Quintets Register Second Victories

THE First Lutheran and Park Avenue Baptist quintets registered their second straight victories in the Church Class B league at the Y. M. C. A. last night.

St. John is also undefeated, but has played only one game. It made its debut last night and hung up a 25 to 14 victory over Mayflower, Brubach tallying 10 points.

The Lutherans turned back South Main, 17 to 13, in a nip-and-tuck battle. Slaybaugh set Plymouth Turns Back Tiro Cagemen, 29 to 22.

PLYMOUTH—Staging a comeback in the final half, the Plymouth Tigers walloped Tiro, 29 to 22, here last night to account for their sixth straight victory.

Coach Bob Dunham's cagemen trailed 6 to 5 at the end of the first period and 12 to 9 at the half, but rallied in the third frame to gain a 19 to 17 advantage. The Tigers stepped away from the visitors in the fourth period.

Ellison tallied 11 points in the victory, with Cashman close behind with nine. Inness and Luft led the losers. The Plymouth reserves took the preliminary game, 24 to 22.

Simpson Hangs Up Fifth Win

Scores 23 to 21 Victory Over Shiloh Cagers.

The Bulldogs of Simpson Junior high school registered their fifth straight victory of the season last night when they toppled Shiloh, 23 to 21, on the Senior high school court where they will play the remainder of their schedule.

Scheduled to play the reserves, the Bulldogs faced the varsity in nearly three quarters of the affray, and still came through the victors.

It was the toughest game the Simpsonites encountered this season, but they showed their mettle by protecting their unmarred record.

Coach Bob DeHaven's Bulldogs jumped into a 6 to 4 lead against a reserve lineup in the opening period. The visitors' varsity was installed in the second quarter, and it overtook the Simpsons to hold a 12 to 11 advantage at the intermission.

The Bulldogs came back after the intermission to regain an 18 to 14 lead. This advantage was reduced slightly in the fourth period, but not enough to change the decision.

Jack Shiplet led the Bulldogs with eight points as every Simpson player but one broke into the scoring column. Moser was high for the invaders with 10 points.

Dodgers Get Luke Via Waiver Route

CHICAGO—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox today were faced with the problem of developing a first string catcher to replace the Veteran Luke Sewell who was released to Brooklyn yesterday at the Interleague waiver price.

Owner J. Louis Comiskey explained the club's belief that Sewell was nearing the end of his usefulness as a full time man behind the plate and that the club needs a younger catcher. Sewell, who will be 36 next month, has been in the majors since 1921.

LIGHTER-BODIED BOURBON!

UP goes the demand for Barclay's Gold Label Bourbon—as all America turns to lighter-bodied whiskey! And with good reason, too. For here's a bourbon that's made right ... and made light. It's full 90-proof ... yet delicate in flavor and aroma. You'd scarcely believe that a whiskey selling at so modest a price could be so smooth and mellow. But don't take our word for it. Order Barclay's Gold Label in your favorite cocktail or long drink soon. See for yourself the difference this lighter-bodied bourbon makes.

'ROBBING OHIO,' DAVEY CHARGES

Governor Renews Blast at U. S. Pension Board; Demands Cash for October.

taxpayers of Ohio, and belongs in their treasury. It is not even federal money, except in the sense that you collect it from the taxpayers of Ohio."

The board had charged that the state administration refused to make certain changes in its set-up to comply with federal regulations. Resumption of grants to the state, the governor said, was "the best proof that you were wrong in the first place."

"Aside from the natural progress that is made from week to week in the development of a large new program, the conditions in the Ohio division are exactly the same as when you shut off federal funds near the end of September," he wrote.

"There never was anything seriously wrong with the Ohio division, but you played dirty politics with the distress of Ohio's needy aged people three days before the August primary, and you had to find some excuse to maintain your pretense of high virtue."

"It is a strange and interesting thing that all the high crimes and misdemeanors to which you gave publicity in August and early September have disappeared into thin air."

The October grants were paid in full when Davey ordered sufficient money borrowed from the general revenue fund to make up for the federal government's share. The board withheld its share after announcing on Aug. 6—three days before the primary in which Davey lost his renomination fight to Charles Sawyer—that the Ohio administration was mismanaged and "permeated by politics."

TWO INJURED IN FALL IMPROVE

SHELBY—The condition of Stacy Haun, Shelby contractor, who suffered a fractured skull, a dislocated left elbow and a fractured left wrist when he fell 30 feet from the Shelby Cycle company roof Monday, was reported improved today by Shelby Memorial hospital attendants.

Haun and an assistant, Glendon Kahlor, were knocked from the roof by a beam which was being hoisted from the ground. Kahlor is in the hospital with two fractured ankles.

Haun fell into a wheelbarrow, which was near the edge of the building, while Kahlor landed on his feet.

FATHER OF TWO GETS PEN TERM

Failure to provide for his two children, 13 and 15 years old, brought a one-to-three-year term in the Ohio penitentiary yesterday to Fred W. Mamber, 43, of 174 South Main street.

Judge C. H. Huston revoked a court order issued two years ago and sentenced Mamber who was cited for contempt after he failed to comply with the order to make weekly payments for the support of his children.

Judge Huston continued until Friday morning cases against Charles Phillips, 49, of Shiloh, and Sylvester Johnson, 22, colored, of Saginaw, Mich., because they had not been served with indictments required 24 hours before arraignment.

Both men were indicted secretly for non-support, and Johnson was returned here from Michigan to face the charge.

Phillips is the father of four children, the oldest 12 years old, and Johnson is accused of failing to provide for a three-months-old child.

The Year in Review—

TWO CABINETS SHAKEN UP AS HITLER ROARS

Der Fuehrer Shuffles Army's Control; Little Business Men Stage a Clamor.

By VOLTA TORREY (AP Feature Service Writer)

LAST February, five years after the Reichstag burned, ex-Corporal Adolf Hitler had far more power than a kaiser. But in Germany's churches and army there still were independent spirits.

Of the clerics, the most defiant was the Rev. Martin Niemöller. He was tried for treason and left in jail.

Of the generals, the star was War Minister Von Blomberg. He and a dozen satellites were "busted."

Simultaneously, Hitler shook up his diplomatic department and roared at Austria and British Foreign Secretary Eden. In Vienna Chancellor Schuschnigg promptly appointed a Nazi, Arthur Seyss-Inquart, to his cabinet. In London, Prime Minister Chamberlain accepted Eden's resignation.

Prophecy and Reality. "I am no Trojan horse . . . Austria must be independent . . . no further changes are foreseen," said Seyss-Inquart.

And he did not hand Hitler the keys to Vienna until the following month.

"The peace of Europe," Chamberlain counseled Commons, "must depend on Germany."

Italy, France and ourselves. And he set out to patch up, first, the rift between London and Rome over intervention in Spain, agitation among the Arabs and "piracy" in the Mediterranean.

U. S. Secretary of State Hull, meanwhile, denied Uncle Sam had any war alliances with John Bull. The Japanese refused to talk about battleships they were building. Chinese airmen bombed Japanese soil for the first time in history. Britain's $150,000,000 "Gibraltar of the Orient," the Singapore naval base, was opened. Arrangements were made—but not carried out—for selling U. S. helium to Germany. And Congress was snowed under with arguments for and against more men-of-war.

Little Men, But Loud. As doughty a miniature auto racer, 1,000 little business men met and those of them who could make themselves heard clamored: Loosen credit, tax chain stores, revive NRA, protect bosses, etc. Though accustomed, as Washington is, to public speaking, the politicians couldn't take it as fast as these vociferous visitors dished it out.

A new AAA was created. The anti-lynching bill was shelved. Price controls, super-highways, monopolies, trade treaties and equal rights for women were debated. U. S. Steel renewed its pact with CIO. United Mine Workers expelled Bill Green, who was busy lambasting Labor's Non-Partisan League as a CIO "dummy" bent on forming a farmer-labor party, and genial gent from Indiana threw mammoth tea party for Paul V. McNutt, who was being talked up for the presidency.

More children than usual had measles. Al Capone was reported suffering from "mental disturbances." Harvey S. Firestone and O. O. McIntyre died.

Crime Marches On. Tabloids told of the Paul A. Wright trial in which a Los Angeles jury called the slaying of his wife and best friend manslaughter and ruled that he was insane at the time—and the killing of Dr. Charles H. Lee, 71, law-and-order crusader, on St. Simons Island off Georgia's coast. And the crime of the month was the kidnapping of Peter Levine, 12, of New Rochelle, N. Y., whose headless body was found on the shore of Long Island sound three months later.

But the winter's great adventure saga ended happily in February: Four Russian weather observers who had drifted southward from the North Pole for months on an ice floe were rescued just as their floe began to crack up off Greenland's rocky coast.

Tomorrow: March.

DYNAMITE ON WILD RICE. HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—State Highway Patrolman Gray Salter saw an automobile weaving along highway. He halted the driver, looked into the back seat of the car and shuddered. Fifteen sticks of dynamite had been jostling around. The driver was fined $150 for drunken driving.

Friendly House's Christmas Observance Tonight.

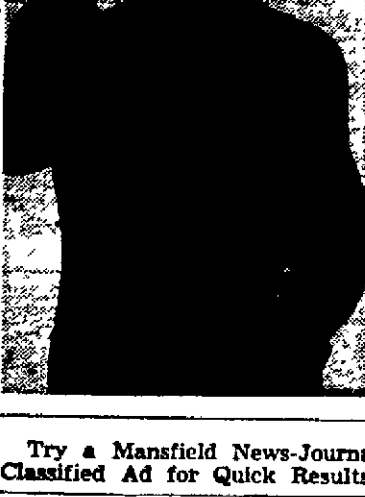

The annual Christmas program at the Friendly House will be presented at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday.

More than 100 children of the settlement will take part in presenting "A Living Christmas Book." Recitations and songs will also be given, and Teddy Atkinson will present his drum major act.

Following the entertainment, a

Santa Claus will present each child under 14 years of age with a treat and gift. The treat will be given by the Hermit club. Dr. C. R. Hien, president of the club, will act as master of ceremonies. Members of the club will assist with the program.

GALION—Two Galion people, Miriam Sayre and Fred Sloane, received diplomas this morning when 225 students were graduated at Ohio State university, Columbus. Miss Sayre received degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science in education; and Sloane received a bachelor of science in business administration.

BUTLER WOMAN, SON ILL WITH 'RABBIT FEVER'

New Cases of Tularemia Boost Number in County to Four; Rehder Renews Warning.

Two new cases of tularemia reported in Richland county today increased the number ill with the disease to four, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, said.

The latest victims reported to the health department by their physicians are Mrs. Carl Littleton and her 24-year-old son, Edward, both of Butler.

Dr. Rehder said that diagnosis made by the attending physician had definitely established that the disease was "rabbit fever."

He said Mrs. Littleton and her son contracted the illness while handling a number of rabbits last week.

Others ill with the disease are Earl Banks, 656 Scholl road and Walter Wareham of Butler who were reported recovering from the ailment, Dr. Rehder said. Both are still under a physician's care, however.

Dr. Rehder again warned persons handling wild rabbits to use every precaution in dressing the game by wearing rubber gloves.

BAN LIQUOR ADS

Radio Broadcasters' Board Approves Resolution.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The board of directors of the National Association of Broadcasters has approved a resolution opposing the broadcasting of liquor advertising.

The NAB directors are in session in the capital to formulate a more stringent code of self-censorship for the 397 stations and the major networks which are members of the association. There are 700 radio broadcasting stations in the United States.

The resolution on liquor advertising follows:

"Resolved: That it is the sense of the NAB board of directors that American Broadcasting stations should not carry advertising for distilled spirits, commonly called hard liquor."

The directors also directed Neville Miller, NAB president, to appoint a committee which will make a thorough study of broadcasting program standards and recommend to the association's next annual convention advisable changes in the NAB "code of ethics."

Orders Removal Of Old Street Car Used as Residence

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston today had ordered Ray Jewell to remove a "street car residence" from a lot in Brookline addition and enjoin Jewell from erecting other buildings on the property which do not comply with the building requirements.

The order was awarded on an action filed by the N. P. Dodge corporation of Omaha, Neb., owner of the property, which contended that Jewell built his "street car" home without permission and that the structure reduced the value of the lot.

Costs of the court action were assessed against Jewell.

Building restrictions on the property, the owners stated, require that a residence have at least four rooms and 400 square feet of floor space.

The plaintiffs charged that the old street car set up by Jewell as a dwelling was unsightly and that he violated the building code by erecting other small shacks on the lot.

CHURCH SCHOOL GIVES PROGRAM

Congregational Young People Tell Yule Story in Pantomime.

The church school of the First Congregational church will stage a Christmas program at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the church auditorium.

Young people will present the story of the Nativity in pantomime and with the singing of carols. Children of the beginners and primary departments also will take part in the entertainment.

The program is for members of the church and church school, their parents and friends.

POLICEMEN TURN BRONCO-BUSTERS

Chicago Coppers Have To Lasso Steers on Streets.

CHICAGO — (AP) — Every once in awhile the Chicago police have to lay off bandit chasing and use their ultra-modern radio-controlled squad cars as broncos to pursue cattle.

Policeman Albert Ledden rode the running board of his squad car to lasso a steer that sniffed the grassless Western avenue pavement hopefully. Ledden's lariat broke so the steer was tied to a fire hydrant with tire chains.

Dishonesty is sometimes found in the most unexpected places.

It will seem odd for children to expect Santa Claus to come through a pump instead of down a chimney.

The "youth movement" also shows considerable disagreement with heretofore accepted standards of spelling.

Don'ts for a Merry Christmas.

LOOKING ahead a few days to a Merry Christmas, remember that it can't be "merry" unless it is safe.

Fire is a great hazard of the holiday season. It has turned many a gladso celebration into tragedy; for the victims of holiday fires are usually children.

So—here are some don'ts for the holidays that will pay big dividends in happiness and safety:

Don't use candles on your Christmas tree—the tree itself is highly inflammable and it, together with tinsel decorations placed near flame, may cause a holocaust in your home.

Electric light sets are inexpensive, safe and satisfactory.

Don't permit children dressed in flimsy cloth or paper holiday costumes to be in a room with open flame of any kind. Fatal burns can be suffered in an incredibly brief period of time.

Don't give children gifts that require the use of explosive chemicals, fire, steam or other hazardous elements.

Don't allow discarded Christmas package wrappings to accumulate. A carelessly disposed match or cigaret may cause them to burst into a fire that will swiftly get out of control.

Dry Christmas trees present a major hazard—dispose of yours as soon as the holidays are over.

And—last but not least—don't take a chance of any kind. Be constantly alert. Have your fun safely.

Eleventh-Hour Appointments Sought.

CALLING the state legislature into special session on Friday, Dec. 30—a single day before the terms of legislators expire—may well be regarded as a final insolent gesture of a discredited governor.

Whatever pretext is offered as to urgent need of immediate re-enactment of the cigaret and liquid fuel taxes to aid the public school foundation fund, it has become entirely clear that Governor Davey's real purpose in calling this belated "lame duck" session is in the hope of gaining previously denied senate confirmation of several appointments to state positions.

Regardless of the merit and capability of the men chosen for these appointments, it seems entirely reasonable to assume that appointments to be made at this time, with terms extending long into the future, should be made by incoming Governor John W. Bricker and subject to confirmation by the new senate.

Whatever may be done in re-enactment of taxes at this eleventh-hour special session, the real problem of meeting the $17,000,000 deficit in the school foundation fund and placing school finances back on a sound basis will devolve on the new legislature.

It is quite like Mr. Davey to wish to intrude himself on a new administration by making appointments to several responsible positions during the final days of his incumbency.

John W. Bricker has been elected to the office of governor of Ohio and it is right that he should have a free hand in making appointments of those who will be associated with him in administering the state's business during the next two years. Any further appointments that Governor Davey seeks to make should be stopped.

Business and Government.

THE COUNTRY is still echoing with an address made recently by H. H. Prentiss, jr., in New York, as spokesman for 42,000 manufacturers employing 5,000,000 people. Like the resolution adopted on that occasion, it was notable for its liberality, and has been regarded not only as a new statement of business principles but a friendly gesture to the government.

"Any fair appraisal," the speaker said, "will give due weight to the awakening of a new sense of social responsibility, and to the progressive steps that have been taken by the government in respect to unemployment, compensation, old-age pensions, labor relations, slum clearance and the correction of abuses in the security market."

Observing that public opinion now "seemed more sympathetic toward American business than it has been for a decade," he added:

"However, the nation will not tolerate a return to the abuses that existed here and there in pre-depression days. So let us not grow weary in well-doing. Let us guard against complacency, over-confidence and backsliding."

"Industry knows that practices common in business a generation ago are today taboo. Elevating the ethics of business by voluntary action is doing much to confound the critics of American enterprise. A new generation of industrial executives is growing up in America. The world empties and fills very rapidly."

He made it clear that, in his opinion, the American world is refilling with business men of vision and sympathy, committed to humane and liberal policies and willing to go along with the government to any reasonable degree.

A similar policy of conciliation seems to be in order now, on behalf of government, when the President addresses Congress in January.

Uncle Sam, Toy-Maker.

AMERICAN factories are now making more of the toys used here and exporting more to foreign countries.

Japan has shipped only about half as many toys to the United States this year as last. Germany's shipments here are about the same as for 1937, but Czechoslovakia's usual quota is greatly reduced.

There may be various reasons for this, but an important one is the fact that industry abroad is more and more devoted to munitions. The toy factories are being crowded out, but toys are still in demand, resulting in a larger market for Uncle Sam.

Brief surveys of toy departments in this country indicate that toys are of better materials and greater variety, and that many of them have educational value as well as strong appeal to boys and girls.

Horse sense sometimes seems even scarcer than horses.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Best available reports are that the president is thoroughly sold on the national necessity of an air fleet approaching 10,000 planes and will ask Congress to finance it, perhaps over a two or three year period.

Estimated cost is pure guess work because of the varying cost of different types of planes but an outlay of a half billion dollars should not be surprising. It may be considerably more but it is not likely to be a great deal less. Not only must the planes be bought but many of them will have to be replaced by different types before the program is complete.

In turn, each plane requires several additional men in the air force. The present air force averages 10 men to a plane, even at eight men to a plane, the new program would mean an air force of 80,000, half the size of the whole army at present. The 1938 air force is 20,000 men and officers.

Exciting reports have come from Berlin as to the potentiality of the German mass production of air planes. It is generally expected that President Roosevelt will make public some of them to bolster his proposals to Congress.

Output Uncertain.

THERE is conflicting information available as to how fast present factory equipment in the United States can put 10,000 planes in the air. The aircraft yearbook published by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce—quite authoritative—reports United States aircraft production in 1937 as follows:

Commercial 2281
Military 949
Export 629

That is not nearly capacity production. At almost any given time one or more of the plane factories will be found short of orders.

Louis Johnson, Assistant Secretary of War, has taken steps to speed up American production with a view to avoiding the harrowing experience of England, just now getting into mass production after starting rearmament three years ago.

A thousand manufacturing plants contribute one or more of the 5,000 different types of parts that go into manufacture of a modern fighting plane. A slowdown in any one would create a bottle neck and throttle the speed of the whole.

Conflicting Military Views.

THERE is real conflict within military ranks about such a huge air arm as seems contemplated. The "elderly generals and admirals" are bitterly opposed to an unbalanced swing to a weapon untested in war as a major tool of defense. But it is known here that Assistant Secretary Johnson is nearest to the ear of the president and he is all for the big air fleet, evidently backed by Malin Craig, army chief of staff.

Some members of congress, including influential Senator Borah, have referred to the air armada proposal as "hysterical." But the Navy whooped up a billion dollar program last spring on the strength of the Japanese menace and it should not be surprising if tales from Munich should persuade congress to go along in the air, balanced budget or no.

Many Envoys Return To Confer

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Five of Uncle Sam's most important ambassadors either are in the United States now, have just been here or will arrive shortly to post President Roosevelt personally concerning conditions in the various foreign countries in which they represent us.

The list includes Joseph P. Kennedy, here from London; William C. Bullitt, from Paris; Hugh R. Wilson, from Berlin; William Phillips, from Rome; Nelson T. Johnson, from Chungking, China. And it's reported that Joseph C. Grew will be summoned soon from Tokyo. That will make six altogether.

Never before in the memory of the oldest inhabitant has there been such a veritable convention of America's key diplomats in Washington, practically all at once. Probably our ambassador in Moscow would be brought home also, but that berth's vacant at present; a charge d'affaires is holding down the job.

This gathering of diplomatic talent at the White House and adjoining State Department building is highly significant.

Watching Overseas.

What it signifies is that the Roosevelt administration is interested in overseas developments as no past administration ever has been except during the World War period. It bears testimony likewise to the administration's appreciation of the situation's biliousness and to its realization of the widespread character of the danger. On earlier occasions a single ambassador now and then has been called from his post to enlighten the president as to some ominous state of affairs with which he is especially familiar. A regular worldwide conclave, however, is unprecedented.

Secretary of State Hull's trip to Peru fits into the picture, too.

The Pan-American conference was scheduled well before European, African and Asiatic complications had become as alarming as they are today. Nevertheless the Pan-American conference couldn't but take into account the peril from over the water.

Secretary Hull's task has been to line up the Americas so as to keep this hemisphere out of whatever may happen elsewhere.

He has been remarkably efficient at it. I knew he would be. Hull has the temperament to get on with our Latin neighbors. I've seen considerable comment to the effect that they're more afraid of us than of Germany, Italy or Japan. It's true that they have feared us, but the last ten years have tolerably cured them of it. Contrariwise Hitler and Mussolini have cured them of a lot of their liking for Germany and Italy. They never did like Japan.

And it's reasoned that the American Latin republics are not a bit truly democratic. Maybe not, but they have to consider themselves democratic as being between being slightly fearful of the "Colossus of the North" and the prospect of being bossed by a Hitler or a Mussolini they'll take the Colossus risk any old time. They proved it during the World War. Most of them sided against the Central Powers. They're more our way now than they were then, because we've been decenter to them in the meantime. Besides, they have sense enough not to care to be mixed into any old world rumpus. They do have their local, German and Italian influences, but they're not dominant.

And they have their local dictatorships, but these dictatorships aren't Nazi-istic or Fascistic. They CALL themselves democratic.

A World Situation.

Anyway, that Pan-American conference has been part of the world situation.

We've called our American ambassadors home from Europe and Asia to ask them, "What about it?" Regardless of their answers we can't do much about it.

Possibly we can keep our own western hemisphere out of the seemingly impending rumpus. Latin America appears to be sympathetic.

As a long-time North American Latin-American my motto is: "Let the rest of the world fight it out, if it's bound to do so. Let us Americans stick together."

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Looking Forward to 1939.

By ERIK M. ERIKSSON
Professor of History, University of Southern California.

In a few days the Seventy-sixth Congress will assemble for its first session. Looking forward, it appears that a number of important matters will have to be disposed of by the national legislature.

Among these is the problem of the railroads. Though the threatened railroad strike was averted by the action of the operators in cancelling their wage reduction orders, the problems which led to the issuance of the orders have not been solved. During the past several weeks an intensive study of the whole transportation problem of the nation has been carried on at Washington. As a result, recommendations will undoubtedly be placed before Congress early in its session.

Probably legislation will be enacted with administration backing to provide loans to railroads, to permit the elimination of surplus trackage and other unneeded facilities, and to speed up consolidations. Of course, there are some members of Congress who favor putting the railroads "through the wringer," that is, forcing them into bankruptcy so as to make possible a scaling down of their debts. Such a procedure will be vigorously opposed, for it would not only result in great embarrassment to educational and charitable institutions which have large portions of their endowments invested in railroad bonds but it would also work hardship on thousands of small investors.

Another question that is certain to be considered in the 1939 session of Congress is the revision of the Wagner Labor Relations Act so as to eliminate its one-sided character and make it fair to the public and the employers, as well as to non-union and minority union workers. Dr. George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, recently reported the result of a poll which showed that 70 per cent of the voters favored amendment or repeal of the act. While considering amendments to the act Congress might well give thought to a proposal to create machinery to mediate labor disputes in those industries which are now subject to Federal jurisdiction. Federal mediation has proved to be very successful in settling railroad labor disputes and would probably prove beneficial if broadened in scope.

National defense will undoubtedly be further promoted. In view of the unsettled world conditions, Congress will probably be easily persuaded to make liberal appropriations for greatly enlarging the nation's air force. The recent crisis in Europe, in which it appears that Great Britain feared to hold

Give to Those Who Don't Deserve It!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

GIFT-GIVING TIME. And this time you're going to manage better than you did last year. Remember how you gave $10 to that worthless Jones family—and they spent it all throwing a party for their disreputable neighbors! You aren't going to be fooled like that again, no sir-ee! This time, you'll give your contributions to those "who deserve a break."

Yes, maybe that's logical. But it certainly isn't the spirit of Christmas! The supreme Gift of all—the dear Babe, Himself—wasn't sent as a symbol of Prudent Presents. He came for those who didn't deserve Him . . . who couldn't claim to be worthy of either man's largess or the Almighty's love. He was God's own gift to the sinful, the ashamed and the sad—to those the world had always forgotten.

The worthy had never been forgotten. Even barbarous Rome observed the code of "quid pro quo." But a new and infinitely lovelier creed was born that Christmas morn . . . when God gave His own Son, as a sign of "peace and good will" to EVERYONE—regardless of their individual deserts.

A Babe born in a manger, far from the ranks of the rich—warned by beasts of burden, mothered by a poor Jewish maid—so He came.

But because of His very poverty and obscurity, that Babe was to understand loneliness and discouragement, failure and fear, as they had never been understood before.

He did not ask that men should be worthy—HE ONLY ASKED THAT THEY SHOULD BE IN WANT!

He did not look at their records. He looked at their furtive eyes, their faltering lips, their fluttering hands—stigmata of those who have failed. And sensing that failure, He GAVE!

Follow His trail, Whom did He serve in the few, short years of His life? The rich and the great and the shrewd? No! The outcasts, accused and accursed! A prostitute, stoned by a mob. A leper, who lived in a grave. A man who fell, foaming in fits. The shamed and the hated and scorned! These knew His healing love . . . these felt His quickening faith!

And why? Why did He—who was the very soul of God—bend down and serve the lowest depths of hell? Was it, perhaps, because He, also, a "despised Nazarene," knew the sting of shame? Did He, perhaps, love the failures most, because He shared their daily bread, and befriended the low-breakers because, He, too, defied a cruel and senseless law? Did He—who soon must bend beneath a cross—feel bound to those already crucified?

Whatever the reason, He gave to the UNWORTHY! And those who would keep His birthday, should do the same. FOR THE WORTHY ALREADY HAVE THEIR SURE REWARD! THEY CAN RESPECT THEMSELVES. But the poorest beggar on earth is the man who has lost his self-respect. No judge can punish a man as cruelly as his own folly punishes him. No "solitary cell" can wrap him in as black a gloom as his own betrayal of himself has already wrapped him.

Do not reserve your best gifts for the "deserving." Do not give to those who will thank you and proclaim their gratitude. Give, as Christ gave, to those who have forfeited their right to a gift . . . to those who are so miserable they may not even be grateful . . . for they are really the needy.

The others already have love . . . and hope . . . and honor . . . and pride—

BUT FOR THESE FORGOTTEN ONES THERE IS NO CHRIST—NO CHRISTMAS—UNLESS THEY FIND IT IN YOUR FRIENDLY HEART.

(Copyright, 1938.)

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—J is for John. Who is John?

John is a glutton for punishment. Make no mistake about this—he loves punishment. John will come to New York presently, and drag himself out to the World Fair.

Please do not feel sorry for John. Nothing can dissuade him. He will haul his frame through exhibits and crane his neck at spectacles until his arches sag and his Adam's apple peels.

Then he will limp back to Manhattan. But not to rest. Not John. His eyes a-gleam with that strange light which sends prospectors after hidden lodes and desert wanderers chasing will-o-the-wisp mirages, he'll start off again—up town, downtown, Hell's Kitchen and all. He'll want to "see" New York.

It is this stage of the patient's dilemma with which your correspondent is concerned. Therefore, a few asides . . . They may save you much time and trouble. They may even save you a few dollars.

DO NOT plan to go down the Atlantic liners. That is impossible unless you are a newspaperman or know some government official at Washington. But you may visit any of the liners, and even go aboard, after they are in pier. To arrange this merely telephone any of the shipping offices. The "aboard" fee costs only a dime.

Observe extreme caution on a tour of Harlem . . . About the only safe places to visit are those which are advertised in the newspapers. They have to be good. Chinatown is a waste of time, despite what the fiction writers have to say. That mysterious, oriental neighborhood where opium-eaters shoot each other with platinum bullets no longer exists. . . . You should eschew the Bowery—Chuck Connors is dead, and only down-and-outers are to be found there now.

If you are a theatergoer, try first to buy your tickets at the boxoffice . . . Then try the ticket agencies, but under no circumstances pay more than 75 cents extra. . . . Do not accept a taxi-driver's advice on which night clubs to visit. The best plan is to consult a friend or the manager of your hotel. Once you are in a night club, total your own check carefully. The arithmetic of waiters is notoriously bad.

Rockefeller Center is important. By all means go over every foot of it. Also ascend several of the town's taller buildings and glimpse New York from the clouds. An unforgettable sight is the lower skyline at dusk, and this may be obtained from the deck of a Hudson ferry. The best vantage point is about mid-stream.

AS FOR celebrities—that is hit and miss. An early morning stroll around the reservoir in Central park invariably brings you face to face with a dozen or so "star" names. The more noted restaurants are also fertile territory. The lobbies of the theaters before curtain time and the back-stage doors about 30 minutes after the final curtain are excellent "blinds" from which to pot your favorite geese.

The Statue of Liberty from the Battery, Washington Square with its gleaming arch, the backwaters of the Village which still retains its Bohemian charm, a ride up Fifth avenue on top of a bus . . . these are a few of the vignettes of New York which are ready and waiting, if you want to take the time.

Timely Editorial

A Splendid Practice.

Hereafter pupils riding school buses in Muskingum county will take turns in "flagging" all railroads their conveyances are about to cross. This order comes, of course, as a direct result of the terrible tragedy in Utah.

By this means probably two things will be accomplished. First, the safety of the pupils and their drivers will be promoted. Secondly, there will be a whole load of persons on guard so that should the driver lapse in his caution or make an error there still will be definite protection against collision.

But it may be that the psychological effect on the pupils themselves will be worth more than anything else. They will learn, caution, care and prudence, they will be on their guard, they will get practice and lessons that will be of use to them throughout their lives.—Ohio State Journal.

A Farmer's Diary

My Mother's Bible.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

Their mother was thin and pale, but did her household task without complaint. She wore neat, patched gingham and a white net cap. The father, a short, broad-shouldered man with gray hair and a kindly face, came in and greeted me so graciously that I felt and knew he spoke the message of his heart.

Long years ago, when I was just a little lad, my mother had a well-worn Bible, too. It was a sacred book for many times those days, when her cares were more than she could bear alone, she would take that Bible from its shelf and go into an adjoining room, find a chapter suited to her mood, lay it on a chair and kneel down beside it. When those precious moments were over, and the pages were wet with tears, she always seemed encouraged and more happy.

Often, since that time, I have looked upon those pages stained with her tears, and thanked heaven for such a Godly mother. Even now, in hours of stress and strain, I feel her nearness, still.

SENATORS PAID

Ohio Lawmakers Get Checks After 3-Day Delay.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson has paid December salaries of state senators after withholding them for three days while the attorney general studied a demand by Arnett Harbage that deductions for improper mileage fees be made from 10 of them.

Ferguson did not announce a ruling, but it was said that any attempt to hold up salaries would be similar to garnishment, which is not permitted against state checks.

Harbage, West Jefferson farmer, had demanded that $1,100 be deducted from the 10 senators' pay because of mileage fees they collected in 1936 when the legislature was in recess. He sued at that time and prevented house members from collecting the fees, but senators already had received theirs.

ROTARY MIXES MUSIC, MAGIC TO ENTERTAIN CRIPPLED CHILDREN

A varied program of music and magic entertained the children of Sunshine school Tuesday at the Mansfield Rotary club's annual Christmas party for crippled children, held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

An instrumental quartet from Senior high school played during the luncheon, followed by a school girl quartet singing Christmas carols.

Children of Sunshine school gave a playlet under direction of their teachers, Miss Helen Bunn and Miss Irene Fessenden, with the scene as the interior of a toy shop.

Featured on the program was an exhibition in magic presented by Ronald M. Boffenmyer of Ashland who was assisted by Mrs. Boffenmyer.

As a finale of the party gifts were distributed to each of the children, with Floyd Dent serving in his usual capacity as Santa Claus.

Guests at the party included county commissioners, employees of the probate office, and Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Downs, superintendent and matron of the children's home.

The program was arranged by a committee headed by William C. Mead, chairman of the crippled children's committee, assisted by Mrs. W. L. Miller, Mrs. Mead, Mrs. Martin Brunner and Mrs. Lewis Hartman.

Next Tuesday the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs will hold a joint meeting, with an address on "Subversive Groups," by Ed Herzog, of Elyria, who testified before the Dies committee on this subject.

CHAPTER 25
THE TUESDAY morning papers, which necessarily went to press about 2 a. m., when vitality is lowest, carried the information that Dr. Thornton Holgate was sinking.
But the early edition of the Tuesday afternoon papers carried an encouraging note. The Chronicle, for instance, had little other early-day news, and so gave the matter a banner line:
RICE PROFESSOR GAINING New Hope Held For Recovery Of Holgate.
The noon edition of The Press went even farther, declaring that the professor was rational, and was even taking nourishment, and quoting physicians as saying his prompt recovery was almost certain. The head injury, which might have gone either way during the first 30 hours or so, responded to expert treatment so that he passed the crisis satisfactorily, physicians agreed.
At 4 p. m. the registrar's office posted a typed notation on the cloister bulletin board:
"It is a pleasure to announce that Dr. Thornton Holgate, injured Sunday at Galveston, now is reported definitely recovering. This information has come direct from his attending physicians."
If anybody had bothered to analyze the episode, it would have been noted that Dr. Holgate's adventure had perhaps undue attention. That is, he was not a celebrity, or anything of the sort; he had merely saved a couple of lives, and almost lost his own. In the big routine of international news day by day, this was not outstanding.
But it had come at a time when other news was rather slack. And it had had just enough of the human element—a little child, a mother, a scholarly professor, the daughter of a rich man—to interest a great many people. The editors were astute in giving the story considerable play.
"Summers!" yelled Emmett Walters, Chronicle city editor, on Wednesday morning. "Slip out to Rice and see if you can round up any more kid stuff on Holgate. Our kid correspondent out there might miss a few bets."
Summers is The Chronicle's top man. Not only the star reporter, but the ace investigator and good will builder, whose discretion often is worth thousands of dollars in the paper's till. He works more or less ad lib.

But Summers didn't find anything new on Holgate except that the man's popularity was the course, mounting. But Summers, ever alert, did come back with recommendation for a Sunday feature article. He did a little raving about the principal character to his boss.
"Thought you were a married man," Walters probed. "Why are you so sold on this woman? A red-headed widow at that?"
"I am married. And have a child. And love my wife. But I'm not blind, personally or professionally. That widow Davis has all of Rice wrapped up in a bag."
"Okay, take Jess Gibson out and shoot the works," Walters ordered. Gibson was the staff photographer. The order meant that one of the best newspaper feature teams in Texas was turned loose on a new story. Editor Walters knew his Sunday paper would sparkle on at least one page. It wasn't the first time Summers had been sent out on one story, and brought back a different and better one.
The interview with Sara Sue Davis was, of course, pleasant. To begin with, poor Jess Gibson went mildly berserk. He saw instantly that Sara Sue was photogenic. He had brought, as customary on such trips, two dozen cut films, in holders. He expected, as customary, to use perhaps two or three of them. But after two hours of it, he grinned a little sheepishly and admitted that he was through now. "I haven't any more negatives, Mrs. Davis," he apologized, quite unnecessarily.
He had pictures of her at her desk, on her front porch, in her garden, in an apron in her kitchen. He had closeups of her face. He had profile studies. He had angle shots—lying flat on the grass for two good views. He snapped her serving a tennis ball. He caught her standing beside the sign in front of her cottage. He wanted a bathing suit view of Sara Sue and lacked the nerve to ask for it, but Summers, being a reporter, supplied the nerve. Graciously, Sara Sue complied, changing in five minutes and appearing in last season's swim suit.

"Um. Surely. My wife is—well, she—"
"She is wonderful. Glorious. I can see it, Mr. Summers. You are that kind of man. Your love was an exalting thing, and probably still is. Almost—divine!" Sara Sue barely whispered the last word.
The tall reporter looked at her for several seconds. He nodded. Then he quietly turned away, picked up his hat, and spoke to the photographer who was waiting. Gibson took his cameras on to the car, leaving them alone. "If you want any of the pictures, you can have them, ma'am," Summers said, then. "If you want to see the manuscript I wrote—and this is an unusual offer—I will bring it out. In fact—Mrs. Davis, if you ever want anything out of The Chronicle, you just telephone me!"
She smiled her gratitude. "Thank you. I knew you'd understand. Understand that I have a lot of secrets I can't reveal. After all, I advertised counsel in romance. When one of my—clients—needs my advice, or asks for it, I must act."

Summers WAS confused now. He had thought that he had put two and two together, to get an unspoken four. But—well, there's never any understanding women. He bowed his thanks again and went away.

Comedian Ed Wynn Would Pay $229,000 on Tax Claims.

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Ed Wynn, the comedian, has stated he had offered to pay $174,000 plus $55,000 interest, in settlement of federal income tax claims filed against him for 1932, 1933 and 1934. The government has made total claims, approximating $750,000 against him for 1932 to 1937 inclusive, but the approximate total of the claims covered by the proposed settlement is $229,000, exclusive of interest.

Wynn said the question of the tax for 1935, 1936 and 1937 would be brought up next year.

The only question involved, he said, was that of "delicate technicalities of the law." There was no question in any case of evasion or anything of that sort.

Russia, Poland Strengthen Ties In Answer to Nazis

BOOST TRADE WHILE HITLER EYES UKRAINE

Agreement Made in Face of Nazi Designs on Greater Territory Expansion.

(By United Press)

MOSCOW — Substantial increases in trade between Soviet Russia and Poland were interpreted today as a Russian-Polish reply to any designs which Adolf Hitler may have on the Ukraine.

Confronted by Nazi-encouraged agitation for the creation of a "Greater Ukraine," the Soviets and Poland announced new inter-government trade increases and were expected to follow them up with a formal trade treaty and a strengthening of political ties.

The new trade treaty probably will be signed next month. It will provide for a mutual most favored nation principle regarding customs duties and other trade questions.

Solve All Problems.
A communiqué said that all commercial problems between the two countries would be solved as a result of present and future negotiations.

Polish quarters said they expected to receive from Russia raw materials, tobacco and iron ore in return for textiles, textile machinery, locomotives and steel products.

Foreign observers interpreted the trade agreements as of less significance than their political implications. Several weeks ago Soviet Russia and Poland expressed their good intentions toward one another, and the announcement came at a time when Hitler was reported as having designs on the Ukraine.

At the same time Russia, concerned about the Nazi agitation in the Ukraine, asked France to define her attitude toward any possible Ukrainian autonomy efforts and whether she would reaffirm the French-Russian pact of military mutual aid in event of aggression. In his speech on foreign policy the other day, French Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet failed to mention the French-Russian agreement.

Most of the Ukraine is in Russia, but parts of it are in Poland, Rumania and Czechoslovakia.

Duce Orders All Able-Bodied to Train as Pilots

LONDON — (INS) — Premier Mussolini, in a drive to provide for Italy the most formidable "shock troops of the air" the world has ever seen, has secretly ordered every mentally and physically able youth in the nation to take special examinations for entry into the Italian air force, it was disclosed on reliable authority today.

Every young Italian eligible for army service is being tested to determine his qualifications as an aviator, it was stated. All Duce's purpose is to create as soon as possible the world's largest force of trained air pilots. According to estimates here, Italy under this plan will eventually possess some 100,000 pilots and air corps reserves.

Men accepted in the Italian air force after passing rigid examinations are being trained for life enlistment, according to the reports, and Mussolini himself is in direct charge of the rebuilding of the air force personnel and equipment.

It is estimated that Italy now possesses 10,000 fully trained pilots, and is adding hundreds to this number every week. At the same time, Italian production methods are said to be turning out large numbers of war planes.

DIES IN FREDERICKTOWN
FREDERICKTOWN — Mrs. Dora Darling, 62, died at her home Tuesday after an extended illness. Her husband, Frank, and a daughter, Mrs. Daniel Dirst of Sacramento, Cal., survive. Funeral services will be held at the home at 2 p. m. Friday with Rev. W. Hilton Petty of the Presbyterian church officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

Urges Dad to Confess 'Incinerator Murder'

Up and Down THE STREET

L. C. Baumgardner, commercial mathematics instructor at Senior high school is on intimate terms with Henry Ford, Betty Boop and Bud Fisher. He even calls them by their first names and sees them five days a week. Does that sound impossible? Here's how it is. Those are the names of three students in his classes. Last year there was a Rose Lee in one of his classes—not, of course, Gypsy Rose Lee of stage and movie fame.

Basketball devotees unable to accompany the Mansfield Tigers to Canton tonight for their tussle with the McKinley Bulldogs will be able to follow the game by radio. The contest, which will go on the air at approximately 8:30 p. m., will be broadcast by the Canton station, WHBC, which operates on 1260 kilocycles. The same station aired the football game between the two school last fall.

Mansfield's Chinese laundrymen, Chester Wing and Charlie Fong, are distributing novel gifts to their customers this Christmas. Wing is giving decorative calendars made in Hongkong, China, and Fong surprised his regular patrons with boxes of lychees, a variety of dried fruit, shipped directly to him from Canton, China. Wing said the duty on 100 calendars shipped from China was $9, or nine cents apiece.

The raising of John Simpson junior high school brings fond memories to some of Mansfield's "youngsters" of yesteryear who attended the 47-year-old structure. But a cherished possession of Council President Karl P. Troll is a report card he received in 1873 while attending a grade school that bears the signature of John Simpson, then serving his first year as superintendent of Mansfield schools.

DEMS CAUCUS

Fair of Holmes County Seen Possible Minority Leader.

COLUMBUS — (UP) — The contest for the post of minority floor leader in the new house of representatives appeared to be between A. Lee Fair, veteran legislator from Holmes county, and Michael A. Feighan, Cuyahoga, as the 36 Democratic representatives-elect assembled here today for their organization caucus.

Three other "receptive" candidates figured in the picture, as possible "compromise" choices. These are: William H. Whetor, Lawrence; Lody Huml, Cuyahoga; and Kenneth M. Petri, Crawford. Rep. Fair, who will be serving his fifth term in the house, was an unsuccessful candidate for speaker in the present assembly at the Democratic caucus two years ago. He had previously served as minority leader during the 1925-26 legislature.

DEATH CLAIMS MISS HOSFELD

Resident of Near Johnsville Dies in Hospital At Age 55.

Miss Martha Almira Hosfeld, 55, of near Johnsville, died in General hospital Tuesday evening following a brief illness. She was born near Butler, Aug. 18, 1883, the daughter of Joseph and Margaret Hall Hosfeld, and spent her entire life in this vicinity.

A sister, Mrs. Mary Boiling, and a niece, Mrs. Margaret Hall of Mansfield, survive. She was a member of the Methodist church of Butler.

The body will be at the Jones funeral home until Thursday noon when it will be removed to the Butler Methodist church for services at 2 p. m. with Rev. E. G. Corwin of the First Methodist church and Rev. H. T. Wintermute officiating. Burial will be in the Butler cemetery.

ASK RECEIVER FOR FIDELITY

Bondholders File Action for Court to Take Charge of Concern's Assets.

(By International News Service)

WHEELING, W. Va.—A suit was on file in federal court here today asking for appointment of receivers for the Fidelity Investment association "to take possession of all property, monies, assets, books and records of said corporation in order to preserve and protect same."

The complainants, nine certificate and bondholders, were Robert F. McCammon, Robert L. Sterne, Frank L. Levy, A. Spencer Kaufman, Arthur Block, Oscar Kind, Jr., Phillip Kind, Willis Fleisher and May F. Fleisher.

The complainants hold investment contracts aggregating $56,250, according to the record. The suit asked the court to direct a valuation, appraisal and audit, that it adjudicate the rights of complainants, and that all assets be marshalled and disposed of from time to time as may be expedient and appropriate.

The suit also asked that the receivers carry on business "to curtail, reduce and eliminate unnecessary waste and expense." The suit charged the association "has so recklessly, carelessly, and wrongfully managed and operated the accounts, finances and funds of the respondent corporation as to presently impair the obligations due to the complainant certificate holders and bondholders."

SON ALSO HELD IN LOS ANGELES SLAYING PROBE

Mother's Blood-Soaked Bed, Human Bones in Furnace Stir Murder Hunt.

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES—Police put a father and his son in the same room today and for more than an hour the son urged the father to confess that he had killed his wife, the youth's mother.

The father would not. He insisted he knew nothing about the disappearance of his wife who had been missing for two weeks. He readily admitted having had intimate relations with two of his daughters, and was held on a charge of incest.

Near the incinerator in the home of William Spinelli, 50, police had found a collection of bones one of which was said, on medical authority, to belong to a human skull.

In a bed room, they found a blood-soaked mattress, a blood-stained floor, and a hand ax splattered with dark stains.

Accuse Father or Son.
Police said they were convinced that either Spinelli or his son, William, Jr., had hacked Mrs. Rose Spinelli to death, dismembered her body, and reduced the pieces to ashes in the incinerator.

The son was held on a charge of suspicion of murder. He told detectives that his father had forced him to write to his sister saying their mother had gone to South America with another man. He wrote another note, he said, to which was forged his mother's signature.

The sister to whom the notes were addressed, Mrs. Helen Aguilari, 25, didn't believe what they said and she had her father and brother arrested.

The elder Spinelli was arrested Monday night at the home of a neighbor. He said he was afraid to sleep in his own house. Police said he confessed having had intimate relations with his daughters, Emma, 16, and Theresa, 22, who is married and lives in San Francisco.

ILL 2 YEARS, DIES

Mrs. James H. Sowash Was Mansfield Native.

Mrs. Alice Burns Sowash, wife of James H. Sowash, died at her home 105 Sturges avenue, Tuesday after an illness of two years. Born in this city, Mrs. Sowash spent her entire life here and in Crestline. She was the daughter of William and Sarah Bishop Burns, pioneer residents of Mansfield.

The survivors include a son, Russell L. Sowash of Bucyrus; a sister, Mrs. J. H. Kroeger of Mansfield, and two grandchildren, Jane and John Sowash. She was a member of the First English Lutheran church.

Private funeral services will be held at the home of her sister, Mrs. Kroeger, 58 Columbia avenue, at 2 p. m. Thursday with Rev. Grover E. Swoyer of the First Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery. Friends may call at the Kroeger home until 11 a. m. Thursday.

GEN. JOHNSON:

We Ought to Be Ready to Build Fighting Planes at Time We Need Them

—By HUGH S. JOHNSON

NEW YORK—Maj. George Fielding Eliot writes as a military expert about the small likelihood that Germany has 10,000 first-line fighting planes. His words are equally eloquent of the folly of the suggestion that we go out and get us 10,000, too.

He says: "To maintain any such strength . . . merely assures a vast wastage of precious material . . . unless a nation is deliberately building against a prearranged date at which it intends to begin war, it is unwise to assemble any great number of planes in the present state of aeronautical science: for planes are being improved so rapidly that today's miracle is obsolete tomorrow."

That seems to say it all well enough to close the argument. It needs no airplane engineer to convince any observing layman that the miracle of today in aircraft becomes the has-been of tomorrow. To make 10,000 fighting ships even in, say, three years, would take a vast expansion in new factories.

When the 10,000th plane came off the production line the factory would have to start all over again and build 10,000 more to replace the first 10,000.

One horn is needed to keep abreast of progress. The other is the absolute necessity to mass production of standardization of design. This contradiction of purpose is seen every day in commercial production, but in this problem of air defense, it is much more painful, difficult and acute.

Keeping abreast of style and progress in making radio sets or washing machines is a matter of sales and dollars and profits. But keeping ahead of progress in national defense is surely a question of life and limb and, possibly, in the prehistorically brutal state of the world today, of individual liberty.

I don't know the answer but I know where to get it. The big aircraft makers? Surely. But working with them, the great motor makers — men like Walter Chrysler, Alvan Macauley, Alfred Sloan and Bill Knudsen — to name a few.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—From a writer named Twist, a new one on writing: "If you want to write—read."

John Twist was a reader in a movie story department. The readers of Hollywood are the forgotten men of the studios. Day after day, eight hours a day, they sit in offices or cubbyholes and read. They read everything; among them they cover practically every piece of fiction that sees print. They plough through novels, short stories, plays, even non-fiction that has screen possibilities.

And then—this is important because it's the rest of John Twist's success story—they write about what they read. They write synopses of each story, pointing out screen ability or lack of it. From these synopses, movie producers select most of the stories you'll be seeing on the screen.

And yet, such being the way of Hollywood, a reader who wants to be a screen writer has even less chance than an outsider.

So John Twist's formula, while it worked for him, isn't to be taken generally. Only two or three other screen writers, besides Twist, came from reading departments. Off-hand I can name only Dalton Trumbo and Marian Dix—and there are scores of readers in Hollywood.

John Twist was a forgotten man, like the rest, for nearly eight years. He's been wanting to write fiction and plays, and he thought the reading department might be an "in." He soon found out however. He turned to that other maxim of the writing craft: "If you want to write—write." In spare time he wrote pulp fiction, and plays. Two of his plays had encouraging tryouts, this side of Broadway. But for the movies — he was a reader.

He must have been an exceptional reader, at that. Back in a day when the screen was loud with gang bullets, he suggested that "Little Women" might make a good movie. It did, to put it mildly. Before that, he had recommended a pulp magazine story that turned into RKO's first talkie ("Street Girl") and later served Lily Pons as "That Girl From Paris." (The story rights, incidentally, cost RKO just $500!)

And he kept on trying to make his formal synopses sound like "treatments," working in a situation here or there that wasn't in the original material. Sometimes he caught hell for it—but one day Cliff Reid, a producer who'll gamble on talent, sent for him.

He had just seen one of Jean's "synopses." Cliff saw the green grass on his own side of the fence.

WIFE ACCUSED

Murder Indictment Filed for Helping Mate Kill Self.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—(AP)—A first degree manslaughter indictment was returned yesterday by a Westchester county grand jury against Mrs. Mary Burckhalter, 45, accused of helping her husband, Eugene Y. Burckhalter, 47, commit suicide on Nov. 19.

The law under which the indictment was found makes "aiding or assisting" in the death of another person a penal offense.

Widowers Target of Wily Women

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The problem of a man left with children to rear, after the death of his wife, is truly pitiable. He is the victim of all types of female sharpers, who, like the camel of fable, takes this opportunity of sticking a head under the tent and crowding out the lawful occupants. Let a widower write a letter to this column, asking my advice about getting a suitable housekeeper, one who would help bring up his children decently, and I am deluged with mail. From Maine to California women write, begging me to recommend them to the bereaved gentleman. They adore children, they love keeping house, they're domestic, etc.—but the catch is in the last sentence: They wouldn't object to marriage "if Mr. — is willing."

But from these letters has arisen the following suggestion for unwary widowers: In selecting a housekeeper, don't be romantic. Select one who has good references. Let good credentials guide you rather than any glamorous appearances.

The following letter is not typical, thank Heaven, but it is fairly reliable, as showing the jam a widower can get himself into by picking out a glamor girl rather than a reliable "all wool and a yard wide" type of housekeeper.

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: "Very suddenly, my dear wife died of pneumonia, leaving me with three children, all under ten years of age. My pastor suggested that I take Miss — as a housekeeper. She had a good character, and was thoroughly responsible. But after I had concluded negotiations with her, I found a very charming woman awaiting me when I returned from the office that evening. "She was singing and playing hymns at the piano, and my three children were singing with her. It was a lovely picture, and I was so unhappy and lonesome that I broke off with Miss — and engaged the lady who charmed not only me but my children as well. "She claimed to be a widow 32 years of age. Nothing was said about any children, and I supposed of course she was free of encumbrances. But after we were married, three untamed children made their appearance, and they owned the house. They fought with my children from morning till night. They ran up candy bills at the drugstore. And my new wife outfitted them handsomely with clothes and sent the bill to me. "I was really so much in love that I agreed to make over my life insurance to her, and put the title of our home in her name. After she had almost wrecked me financially, I discovered she was out with her former boy friends during the day, and that my children were running wild. "I took my case to a lawyer, and now find that I shall have to pay this woman a substantial sum to get rid of her. I'm writing this letter to you in the hope it may reach the eye of some other sap, situated as I was, and that he won't fall for the picture of an attractive woman at the piano, singing hymns with his children. I neglected to say that before the lady removed herself from my home she threw a book at me, and her aim was excellent. WISER WIDOWER."

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

IT LACKED five minutes of the half hour I had named to Dicky when the telephone rang again and the operator announced, "Mr. Cholmondely-Wells calling."

"Please send him up at once," I directed, and then waited, divided between eagerness and merriment, hoping that I would be able to keep a composed countenance when my husband should arrive.

"Mr. Cholmondely-Wells?" I queried, and Dicky bowed from the waist.

"How do you do?" he said, but when the elevator started downward, he added grandiosely, "In person."

Striding across the threshold, he looked down at me with twinkling eyes.

"I feel exactly like the principal in a French farce," he said. "Calling on my own wife, pretending to be some other man!"

I astonished my husband by demanding, "Dicky, do you know anybody in South Jersey?"

"Will you tell me what that has to do with the price of oats?" he asked after a stare of amazement.

"Or, rather, with the state of mind and health of Mary and Noel?" I asked after them a minute ago, if I remember rightly.

"They're all right, and very happy," I returned. "At least, they were last night. I haven't seen them yet this morning."

"Well, it's early yet," he commented with a look at his watch. "And it's a good thing they're happy. I'm not yet sure that this was a good stunt to pull; too darned risky, if you ask me. That's one reason I'm over here. I wanted to see if you'd run into a jam of any kind. And by the Lord Harry, you have. I know by the cut of your jib. What's the matter? Noel gone temperamental or anything like that?"

"Might as well be comfortable," he said. "Now go on! Shoot!"

"It isn't so much what he has done, as what Mary and I are afraid he's going to do, if she does any rehearsing with me," I said.

"We're afraid he's going to resent very strongly any attempt on Mary's part to devote a minute of time to anything else but him."

"Well! that's a perfectly natural feeling," Dicky said defensively, and I reflected on the solidarity of men.

"But," he went on, "he ought to see Mary's side of it, too—and yours. You've put yourself out a good deal to pull this stuff, and the cub ought to be grateful—and do-cile."

"I don't care anything about that part of it," I told him quickly. "But I do care about Mary's losing time with her work."

"Well! if I know you, Mrs. Fix-it," Dicky softened the familiar gibe with an affectionate smile, "you've already evolved some scheme for dealing with Noel. Aha!" with a keen glance at my flushed face. "I knew it! You have. Come on! Tell Papa about it."

"It probably won't work," I said despondently, but went on to tell

COMMON SENSE NEEDED NO CONVENTION, no matter how well worked out, can ever be a substitute for plain ordinary common sense. A splendid device for locating aces and kings, which is just what the Blackwood convention is, can do nothing but furnish useful information. But a keen player will give careful thought to the way he will use the information which has been vouchsafed him.

Two pairs in a duplicate game used the Blackwood convention perfectly on this deal. Then one of the South players made the correct use of his knowledge to pick the final contract, whereas the other went wrong.

In each case South started with 2-Spades, North bid 3-Spades, then South made the Blackwood artificial bid of 4-No Trump, which merely asks the partner how many aces he holds. To show none, North would say 5-Clubs; one, 5-Diamonds; two, 5-Hearts; three, 5-Spades; all four, 5-No Trump.

North of course answered the 4-No Trump on this hand with 5-Diamonds, showing one ace.

This enabled the Souths to know that the opponents held an ace, so that a grand slam would be impossible. But the small slam seemed pretty sure to both Souths. One of them jumped at once to 6-No Trump, which was set because the

"Oh! if you only would!" I breathed. "Of course, I will, goose," he retorted, then repeated a query he had put before.

"What do you want to know about South Jersey? I know loads of people down in that section, but how is it going to help you?"

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Dec. 22.

THIS day's astrological auguries are conflicting, judging by the lunar transits. While things may be particularly lively and full of excitement, with a very sudden benefit seeming to "drop from the sky," there also may be just as definite a setback or obstacle to reaping such heralded advantage. It might be a grave danger to an elder, illness or bereavement. A financial loss also is indicated. Nevertheless, new projects are greatly accelerated, with support from influential sources. Deal with the young rather than elders.

Those whose birthday it is may experience a year of conflict and contradictions. Important benefits accrue from initiative, determined effort and the aggressive attempt to launch new and important projects. At the same time, there may be a definite setback, due to illness, bereavement, grief or some other frustration. Safe-guard funds against loss.

A child born on this day may be energetic and aggressive, and may attract the attention of important persons. Yet it may suffer from an impetuous and overzealous nature.

The Kolanchoe is a most attractive Christmas plant. The flowers are fire-red and the foliage a glossy green. It stays in bloom eight to ten weeks and the flower buds keep coming throughout the Winter. More plants may be grown by making cuttings about two inches below a leaf and placing it in water. In a few weeks you have a new plant started.
